

Sean Downey

Sean Downey received his BFA from the Kansas City Art Institute and his MFA from Boston University. He has had recent solo exhibitions at Drake University (Des Moines, IA), Shelter in Place Gallery (Boston, MA), Steven Zevitas Gallery (Boston, MA), and has been included in recent group exhibitions at the Museum of Museums (Seattle, WA), Rivalry Projects (Buffalo, NY), Richard Heller Gallery (Santa Monica, CA), Abigail Ogilvy Gallery (Boston, MA), the Institute of Contemporary Art at MECA (Portland, ME), the Leroy Neiman Gallery at Columbia University (New York, NY), and LaMontagne Gallery (Boston, MA).

Downey was a founding member of the Boston-based curatorial collaborative kijidome, winner of the 2015 James and Audrey Foster Prize from the Institute of Contemporary Art, Boston. His work has been recently featured in Joia Magazine, Art Maze Magazine, New American Paintings, Maake Magazine, and Hyperallergic. He currently lives and works in Fairfield, IA, where he is an Associate Professor of Art at Maharishi International University.